

The Wall

*Like a city whose walls are broken down is a man who lacks self-control.
Proverbs 25:28*

Picture your life as a compound protected by a wall on all sides. The wall keeps your enemies out. Nothing can disrupt what God wants to do in your life.

The only way the wall can be breached is if you allow sin to enter.

When we look at other people, it's easy to see that some have so many breaches in their wall that the enemy can just walk right in.

But what about your life? How many breaches would it take for the enemy to penetrate your wall and enter into your compound? That's right. Just one.

Consider Adam and Eve. All was fine until one little bite from the fruit let the enemy in.

Consider Moses. He was used in a major way, but once deviated from God's instructions and failed to trust Him. Because of this he never entered the Promised Land.

Consider David. He was on fire for the LORD, but one act of adultery wreaked havoc in his life.

As you look closely at your life in the next few days, remember that it only takes one breach in your wall to allow the enemy to keep you down.

May God be gracious and bring to light any areas of sin that keep you from thriving in Christ. May you have the gift of true brokenness and sorrow that leads to repentance, forgiveness, and new life.

With Him, may every breach in your wall be sealed. Now is the time.
